

Internship in the communication department at Distortion

We are looking for an ambitious intern who will help create a diverse street party and a world-class electronic music festival.

In the communications department, we work to attract Copenhageners and international visitors to the festival week from 29 May to 2 June 2024. We produce communication material for our own platforms and do various marketing initiatives and PR efforts in Denmark and abroad. We work in teams and with external competences. In this way, you will get to know professionals and skilled freelancers from the industry. Two interns are wanted in the department. One with a flair for copywriting and strategy and one with a flair for video and design.

Copywriting and strategy

You must apply if the following tasks are of interest to you and you would like to become better at:

- Elaboration of campaign strategy and idea development
- PR and SoMe copywriting, including event and artist texts
- Dialogue with external partners about joint projects for the festival

Your qualifications:

- You can write quickly and concisely in both Danish and English
- You like to research
- You work in a structured way

Video and design

You must apply if the following tasks are of interest to you and you would like to become better at:

- Develop and execute visual identities
- Idea and production of content, including: video, illustration, graphics for SoMe and website

Your qualifications:

- Can work in the Adobe programs Premiere Pro and Illustrator
- Has experience with SoMe platforms and formats

About the secretariat

You will be part of a committed team of around 30 people at the festival office. Our team has a broad background in cultural life and advertising industry, and several have experience from teaching. We are divided into the departments: street party, communication, production and volunteering. We have weekly meetings, and we work across departments, but you will always have a permanent base in the communication department.
