

Internship in the street party department at Distortion

We are looking for an ambitious intern who will help create a diverse street party and a world-class electronic music festival.

In the street party department, we work with all the projects that take place on the street during the festival from 29 May to 2 June 2024. We plan the entire street party with our partners, and we make sure that the logistics around the entire production work. We work in teams and with external competences, and you will therefore get to know more professionals and skilled freelancers from the industry. We are looking for two interns in the department with a flair for coordinating and running cultural and music events.

Street party team

You must apply if the following tasks are of interest to you and you would like to become better at:

- Coordination of all Distortion's street party co-organizers (street hosts)
- Work with urban culture
- Make agreements with business partners
- Planning and execution of cultural events

Your qualifications:

- You are studying at a relevant education
- You can work structured and are good at project management
- You are good with other people
- Is adaptable, flexible and can work independently
- Thrives with sometimes hectic working days

About the secretariat

You will be part of a committed team of around 30 people at the festival office. Our team has a broad background in cultural life and advertising industry, and several have experience from teaching. We are divided into the departments: street party, communication, production and volunteering. We have weekly meetings, and we work across departments, but you will always have a permanent base in the street party department.
